RAIN AT PHILADELPHIA.

The Senators Were Undoubtedly the Winners by the Downpour.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—The double header scheduled for today between the Philadelphias and Washington was postponed on account of one of the hardest rains of the season. The players spini the time at their hotel, and the Senators did not have many hard things to say about the weather man, as they are in a ball club can take a game from them From the style of their play here yester-day they are the easiest team to hold up that has happened along this senson. Manager Manning professes to have something new in the line of players, but and Washington will have another try at two games tomorrow after-noen, and will leave for Washington to-gether, to commence the first of a series of three games at the Capital Thursday.

The Manningites have principally been of use to fatten the averages of their opponents, while every once in a while some philanthropically inclined club has allowed the disheartened Washingtonians to win a game.

Manager Manning has realized the folly of expecting the club as at present constituted to win a majority of its games and has, in consequence, been on a hint for new players. It is understood that he has succeeded in getting a few new men, but there is much silence maintained regarding their identity. "as the National League club owners might want to stead the new Senators if their names were known." Anyway, the Washingtons will first take on the Philadelphia aggregation for three gamen, after which a similar number of contests will be played with each of the Western clubs. Every hotel, boarding house, cottage, and stable kitchen is full to the doors. Conservative estimates place the present population of the village communities about the Springs at 40,000. Others not conservative make it 50,000. No matter which estimate is correct it is a certainty that folks who did not make arrangements for rooms and board some three weeks ago are having to camp out and hustle and are faring badly. They cannot get into any of the big hotels for love or money.

STREET CAR MEN'S CLUB.

The New Quarters Opened With a

The Washington Traction and Electric Company Employes' Relief Association last night celebrated the opening of the new reading room, which has just been completely furnished and equipped as a place of recreation, and presented by the company for the use of the men who col-lect tickets and handle the motors on its leven street railway lines in Washington, The housewarming occurred last evening from 8 o'clock until midnight. The rooms given for the use of the men in their hours of recreation include the entire second floor of the building at 430 Ninth Street northwest. For some time past workmen have been engaged in making the place ready for occupancy as a ing the place ready for occupancy as a club room, and last night it was thrown open to the conductors and motermen and their friends. The main room, 126 feet long by 25 wide, is equipped as a billiard parior, with a bewling alley, shuffle board, and various other games, including checkers, chess, dominoes, and cards. One portion has been set aside as a reading room, it has been fitted up throughout, and furnished with periodical literature, current sangasines, and the dally Washington, Baltimore, and New York newspapers. An office for the secretary of the association has also been furnished. The entire expense has been paid, and the rooms will be maintained for the men, by the traction company. The third floor of the ballding will probably be utilized within the next few months.

At the opening of the club rooms last night the company provided ample entertainment and refreshment for the men. Set drinks, cigars, and sandwiches were served in plenty, and the conductors and motormen enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The games and magazines were largely parronized. The club will be open every day hereafter. club room, and last night it was thrown

An Astounding Suit Sale Now in Progress at Half Price.

The sixth day of the Parker-Bridget Half-price Suit Sale, and a rising enthusiasm still pervades the store. It bursts from the ever-arriving crowds and ever-increasing throngs. It spreads from one floor to another-contagious, epidemic. Buyers and salespeople both are in a special ferment over the greatness of the bargains. Customers are inspired with the eagerness of good selection, hence a moving mass from store-opening till store-closing time is what one may behold here. Compliments expressed in practical purchases are poured upon the goods in a measure here tofore unknown. That's proof positive of the success of the sale.

John Sullivan, forty-three years old, of 220 G Street northwest, spent last night at the Casualty Hospital because of numerous cutts, especially about the face, which he says were administered by an unknown individual in a Baltimore saloo. Sullivan reached the city last night over the Baltimore and Ohlo Raifroad, and was taken to the Sixth precinct station by a citizen, whom he met at the depot. The police sent the wounded man to the hospital in a patrol wagon.

The story of Sullivan is that he went into Raiferty's saloon, in South Baltimore, vesterday afternoon. There he had a drink, while a number of others stood about the place drinking and talking.
